IT COULD BE WORSE—Thursday the 12th could be a more rotten day than Friday the 13th in the Central Ohio area. A 3-inch snowfall greeted us Thursday morning and Friday's forecast calls for sunny skies and a high of near 50.

Fear Fruit Tree Damage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Unseasonably cold weather frosted much of the East and parts of the South again today while growers assessed damage to fruit and vegetable crops hit by record-low April temperatures Wednesday.

Below-freezing temperatures dipped south as far as North Carolina and frost nipped northern Florida only a day after intense cold caused widespread damage to orchards and tender field crops from Southern Illinois to Arkansas and Alabama.

A University of Missouri horticulturist, Rudy Zuroweste, predicted that cold damage would cause some fruit prices to soar in months ahead.

Alabama's peach crops suffered severe damage from the cold as temperatures at Birmingham touched 26 early Wednesday.

Arkansas's tomato crop may be 70 to 75 per cent destroyed, officials said.

Crop losses in Southern Illinois, already severe from flooding, were further damaged by the severe cold. One peach grower said his crop was a 100 per cent loss — "We can't find one live bud."

A light mixture of rain and snow iced areas between the Great Lakes and the Ohio River, but the accumulation was slight, usually less than an inch. Rain moved over the Oregon coast.

The last hay drop operations in southwestern Colorado were completed in an effort to feed cattle stranded by heavy snow. As temperatures moved into the 60s, burying cattle killed by severe weather.

Weather

Cloudy and cold today, high near 40, with chances of additional snow decreasing to 30 per cent by night. Partly cloudy and cold tonight, high near 25, with a 20 per cent chance of precipitation. Sunny and warmer tomorrow, high near 50, with a 10 per cent chance of rain.

Ohio Assembly Takes Up Flood Of New Measures

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An emergency bill to cut red tape and speed state payments to the providers of indigent health care was up for a vote today in the Ohio House with sponsors predicting passage.

Rep. Richard F. Celeste, D-5 Cleveland, sponsored the administration-backed bill that would authorize the state auditor to make interim payments to doctors, pharmacists, hospitals, and other providers who have not collected at least 35 per cent of their bills due since September, 1972.

Payments involve treatment and medicines provided under the federal Medicaid program, delayed by the conversion to a new computerized billing system in the Welfare Department and other problems. State officials say the payments soon will be current to within 60 days, but that the legislation is needed to help some providers who contend they are nearly bankrupt.

Celeste said the bill contains sufficient safeguards to guard against attempts at illegal collections and to keep the books balanced between the state and those participating in the program.

Legislative leaders said they have all but abandoned hopes that the 1973 session can end by July 1 as hoped originally, and that they now feel Aug. 1 would be a more likely target date. The House Finance Committee's work on the administration's $9.8 billion budget bill continued Wednesday night with Chairman Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bournville, saying he still hoped the measure could be brought to the House floor next week. The legislature wants to take a 10-day recess starting next Thursday, but completion of House action on the budget may be a stumbling block.

It still must get through the Senate, and differences between the two chambers resolved, before state spending authority expires July 1.

Judge Delays OEO End

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge says the Nixon administration is acting illegally in its plan to disperse rapidly the programs and people of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

U.S. District Court Judge William B. Jones issued a broadly worded order Wednesday enjoining Howard Phillips, acting OEO director, from proceeding further with the administration plan to phase out the antipoverty agency.

Jones said the administration could not unilaterally terminate OEO programs established by Congress as long as funds are appropriated for them. His decision came on suits filed by a union local representing government workers and a Missouri rural redevelopment corporation.

In Chicago, however, U.S. District Court Judge James B. Parsons refused to halt the administration's actions. Parsons said suits filed in Chicago were premature since "OEO will continue as provided by law unless Congress acts to discontinue it or fails to act to cause its continuance and that Community Action Agencies will be funded for their programs at least through 1973. The Chicago action also was filed by a union local that represents OEO employees.

The White House and the OEO said they would have no comment on the two decisions until government attorneys studied them.

Phillip R. Kete, president of the government union local in Washington, told an overflow crowd of about 100 in the lobby of OEO headquarters after Jones issued his decision: "We are proud to have fought, and happy to have beaten, this attempt to violate the laws of the United States."

He urged President Nixon to replace what he called "Howie Phillips and his wrecking crew" with managers who will carry out the Economic Opportunity Act as, he said, the union members will. The crowd cheered.

The suits in Washington and Chicago raised an issue that has agitated the capital for months—the alleged usurpation and denial by the executive branch of government of programs enacted by Congress and presumably mandated by the legislative branch to be carried out.

The latest OEO renewal by Congress, for example, "directs" that the agency continue into 1975.

President Nixon, in his 1974 budget message last Jan. 29, spelled out proposals to transfer responsibility for certain OEO functions to other agencies. The administration also has said local communities would have to fund antipoverty programs if they want to continue them.

Major Emission Standard Dropped

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Environmental Protection Agency official says EPA's little-noticed desertion of 1976 nitrogen-oxide limits in automobile exhausts is far more significant than its delay in forcing abatement of two other pollutants.

If Congress accepts EPA's views, auto makers may have to provide little or no control of nitrogen oxide beyond that already applied to today's cars.

That would make it a lot easier for them to meet the tough carbon-monoxide and hydrocarbons limits which were postponed Wednesday from their original 1975 deadline to 1976.

In addition, EPA is questioning the more-general air-quality standards for nitrogen oxide, with the result that plans to control this pollutant in urban areas will be delayed at least another year, and strict nonvehicle controls may eventually become unnecessary in many areas that, until now, seemed to need them.

Environmental Protection Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus, in announcing suspension of 1975 standards and establishment of interim standards for automobile carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons, mentioned just briefly EPA's new position on the nitrogenoxide limit. He urged that it be reviewed quickly.

Lebanese Seek Israeli 'Inside Men'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Palestinian guerrilla command is reported searching for an American they believe was involved in the Israeli raid on Beirut. They launched a hunt Wednesday for persons who aided in the attack, and reliable informants said a Frenchman was captured.

The Lebanese government said holders of British, German and Belgian passports rented the six cars the Israelis used in the raid. The government said the Europeans had not left the country through its airport or border posts "so it is presumed they left with the Israeli commandos."

But Yasir Arafat of the Al Fatah guerrillas said: "There is evidence that some elements are still in Beirut. They did not leave with the attacking force. They stayed behind, probably to plan other attacks."

Arafat accused the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency of helping the Israelis in their attack Tuesday in which three other Al Fatah leaders were assassinated.

In Washington, Secretary of State William P. Rogers said in a statement Wednesday night that Palestinian allegations about U.S. involvement in the raids were "a plain lie."

In a later interview, however, Eric Stork, EPA director of mobile source controls, described the position more bluntly.

"We have said we're going to back off the nitrogen-oxide standard. That's the real story," Stork said.

Ruckelshaus, in a separate interview, said EPA had "badly overestimated" the nitrogenoxide

PICCA 'Phaseout' Grant Announced

Congressman William Harsha announced today a $40,296 "phase out" grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity has been approved for Pickaway County Community Action Organization (PICCA).

A spokesman from Harsha's office said today the grant has been affirmed and will not be effected by yesterday's court ruling ordering the continued funding of OEO programs.

The spokesman stated it is believed that President Nixon's administration will appeal the ruling.

Jim Stanford, executive director of PICCA, was unaware of the grant but said he had been told money would be forthcoming to continue operation of the local agency until October. The large percentage of the money will be used in PICCA Day Care Center operation.

On March 28, a $32,000 grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare had assured the operation of the Summer Head Start Program.

Originally, Stanford had been told to phase out the local agency by the end of April. Although none of the people employed by PICCA have yet been dismissed, several have left for other jobs. According to Stanford, although the intent of the President is to reduce the public payroll, OEO currently has more employees than when the phase out was ordered. Most of these employees have been added to the Washington Staff, Stanford said.

"If we have to discontinue some of these programs, it will be virtually impossible to get them started again," he contended. "We have already been forced to make the decision to drop the Neighborhood Youth Corps program which provided jobs for 71 youngsters last summer. Now these boys and girls will have nothing at all this summer," Stanford stated.

During its existence, PICCA has served as an employment agency and according to Stanford has taken a number of people from the relief role placing them in jobs.

Inventor Claims Auto Firms Ignored Antipollution Engine

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — "Detroit had the tools to lick smog 15 years ago and didn't do a damn thing with them," says a California inventor who claims American automakers ignored an antismog engine he developed in the 1950s.

Ralph Heintz says Japan's Honda Motor Co. is now using basically the same design as his to pass 1975 exhaust emission requirements. The federal Environmental Protection Agency on Wednesday granted U.S. car manufacturers a one-year extension to meet those standards.

Heintz says both he and Honda developed a "stratified charge" engine which, like diesel engines, employ precombustion chambers to burn fuel completely.

Gasoline is fed into a small chamber where it is ignited and then blown into the main firing chamber, Heintz said in an interview Wednesday. American autos, with only one carburetor, do not burn fuel as efficiently, thus causing smog, he added.

Heintz, 81, an inventor and engineer who operated an aircraft equipment firm during World War II, said he became interested in the stratified charge engine after visiting Los Angeles in 1955, where smog caused his eyes to water.

At his ranch laboratory near Stanford University, Heintz said he built five low-emission engines, the first successful model a modified eight-cylinder Chrysler he drove daily.

"I got only 18 miles per gallon at first, but later got it up to 22," he said.

He said his efforts to interest Detroit automakers in the engine were rebuffed.

"No one would listen to me or talk to me. I had a real bad time. I couldn't convince them that there was something viable here," Heintz said.

Heintz said he experimented with the engines for 12 years and spent $200,000 before he and his partner, shipping magnate Stanley Dollar, abandoned the project.

Heintz said he turned his patents over to Stanford, his alma mater, "with the idea being the auto companies would be more willing to talk to a university representative than to an individual."

pollution problem, previously considered a serious source of smog.

"Instead of 47 regions with serious problems," he said, "we really only have two: Los Angeles and Chicago."

Ruckelshaus said he already has suggested to Congress that the 90-per cent nitrogen-oxide reduction now required by law for 1976 automobile should be reconsidered.

He said he would bring the subject up again in hearings next week, which were announced Wednesday by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, chairman of a Senate air and water pollution subcommittee.

Ruckelshaus offered no estimate of a more reasonable nitrogen-oxide limit, but another EPA source said the agency would be willing to settle for the present level of control, or a little better.

Young May Run Again

NORWALK, Ohio (AP) — Former Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, said Wednesday he may again be a candidate for the Senate.

The 84-year-old former Congressman said he would be especially interested in running if former astronaut John Glenn put in a bid next year for the seat held by Republican William Saxbe.

Young called Glenn a "bush league astronaut compared to the achievements of even other astronauts."

He said if he runs, "Ohio Democrats will elect me as they did before and, as in '64 and '70, Glenn will meet disastrous defeat."

Young's statements were in a speech prepared for delivery to a Huron County Democratic meeting here. The speech was distributed in Washington.

Referring to age, Young said in the speech, "People are only as old as their doubts, their lack of confidence, their fears and despair."

Tax Reform Hopes Dim

WASHINGTON (AP) — Income taxing time is at hand; federal tax reform is not.

An issue during the 1972 presidential campaign, tax reform is still in the issue stage, although Congress has taken an initial step toward shaping legislation.

There is, however, no likelihood that the product will be the kind of overhaul of upperbracket and corporate tax provisions advocated by some Democrats.

President Nixon has said he will recommend property-tax relief for the elderly and a tax credit for parents on

Leukemia Victim Gets Nixon Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nine-year-old Jessie Clark has leukemia and needed a room of his own in his fight against the disease.

Since March 28, the youngster has been without even a home. Fire destroyed the Washington residence where his mother and her seven children had lived.

Since that time, Mrs. Mamie Clark, 29, and her children have lived at a welfare shelter. But today is different.

President Nixon, a federal official said, found a new home for Jessie and his family, that will give the boy what doctor's say he needs most—a room of his own in his fight against the disease.

"The President's giving you a house," Mrs. Clark quoted Gilbert DeLorme as telling her. DeLorme is deputy area director of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

DeLorme said he was contacted by a "top administration official," whom he did not name, "on behalf of the President." He said he was told to find housing for Mrs. Clark and her family. News accounts of the family's plight said Mrs. Clark, a welfare mother, had run into trouble finding housing for her large family.

DeLorme placed the family in a newly remodeled four-bedroom apartment that is being rehabilitated under a federally subsidized program.

The White House has confirmed that aides had stepped in to help the family, but a spokesman would not say whether Nixon was personally involved.

AFL-CIO Backs State Lottery

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio AFL-CIO today announced its support for a constitutional amendment on the May 8 ballot that would permit a state-operated lottery.

The labor organization in its monthly publication, Focus, said Ohioans are now spending upwards of $30 million a year on lottery tickets sold by other states.

"We believe Ohioans should be able to buy these lottery tickets in the state," it said, "thereby keeping their money here to help Ohio schools and other government services at the same time."

The constitutional amendment, if approved, would lift the ban on a lottery dating back to 1851.

Brown Says Lottery

Won't Curb Crime

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Without disclosing whether he supports the measure, Atty. Gen. William Brown said Wednesday voter approval of a constitutional amendment to permit a state lottery would not reduce organized crime in Ohio.

Brown said a lottery would attract some people away from illegal numbers operations, but noted "organized crime deals with a lot of other things."

tuition paid to private elementary and secondary schools.

The administration has not yet presented detailed proposals, but is expected to recommend little more than that.

Nixon is concentrating on another aspect of the tax question, contending that if Congress undoes the economies in his budget, "it would take a 15-percent increase in income taxes to pay for the additional expenditures."

Would-be reformers have talked of raising vast new revenues by undoing what they consider loopholes in the tax code, but the administration says that can't be done.

John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's domestic-affairs chief, contends it would not be possible to raise substantial amounts of new money through tax reform "unless you start digging into the average taxpayers' exemptions," such as deductions for donations to charity, mortgage interest and the like.

And Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, says Congress never has managed to gain revenue through tax reform.

Mills supports Nixon's proposed tax break for tuition-paying parents.

What may emerge eventually is a bill embracing that; property-tax relief; and revenue-boosting changes in the capital-gains tax and the minimum levy in upper-bracket taxpayers.

Whatever happens, it won't happen soon. Mills said his House Ways and Means Committee, which initiates tax legislation, will act first on Nixon's request for broad new trade-negotiating powers.

Waiting in the Senate are such reform advocates as Sen. George McGovern who, in his losing Democratic presidential campaign, said he would seek changes to add $22 billion a year to tax revenues by 1975.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine has introduced legislation he said would produce $18 billion in new revenues by closing "upper-income and corporate loopholes."

But other omens are more likely to foretell the outcome.

Nixon, during his re-election campaign, said he favors plant-depreciation provisions that benefit

Pair Is Jailed For Trespassing

Two Circleville men were found guilty on a trespassing charge and sentenced by a three judge panel to the Pickaway County jail.

Roger Levan, 22, and Forrest Mumaw, 20, entered guilty pleas to the trespassing charge recommended by Prosecutor Richard Gerhardt as a reduction of the original breaking and entering indictment brought by the grand jury in November.

The judges — William Ammer of Pickaway County, Ronald R. Calhoun of Gallia County and J. Donald Ratcliff of Ross County — ordered a 30 day jail sentence for Mumaw, but allowed him credit for time already served. A 15-day jail sentence was ordered for Levan, and credit given for three days he had served before being released under bond.

The pair had been charged with an attempted break-in of a Walnut St. home last October.

industry at tax time, as a way to promote improved U.S. plants and equipment. He also said there should be no reduction in oil-depletion allowances, a favorite target of reformers, in view of the energy crisis.

During the campaign, Mills joined in proposing legislation to phase out 54 specific tax advantages unless Congress specifically reinstated them. Nothing was done about it then, and he did not renew the proposal in this Congress.

Grand Jury Widens Probe Of Watergate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate grand jury appears to be investigating allegations of Republican spying and undercover disruptions that went beyond the break-in and bugging of Democratic national headquarters.

Questioned Wednesday were former White House aides Dwight Chapin and Gordon Strachan and a California attorney, Donald Segretti.

Both Chapin and Strachan have been linked in various published accounts to allegations of political spying and sabotage. Three lawyers have said that Segretti tried to recruit them for political espionage against the Democrats.

According to an FBI report made public in Senate hearing, Segretti received more than $30,000 in Nixon re-election campaign funds from Herbert Kalmbach, the President's personal lawyer. Kalmbach told the FBI he acted at Chapin's request. Last Feb. 7 the New York Times reported that Strachan made the initial White House contact with Segretti.

The Washington Post said in today's editions that convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr. told the grand jury he was advised that transcripts of wiretapped Democratic conversations were hand-carried to former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. The newspaper attributed the story to reliable sources and said McCord had confirmed it.

McCord was quoted as saying that co-conspirator G. Gordon Liddy, a former White House aide, said Mitchell had ordered a "list of priorities" in bugging Democratic conversations last year.

Mitchell repeatedly has denied any prior knowledge of the Watergate bugging operation.

Anne Armstrong, a counselor to President Nixon, said she agreed with Sen. Barry Goldwater that the Watergate affair is hurting the Republican party. She told newsmen that the administration is determined to clear up the case and the courts are the best way to get at the truth.

Urge Standards For Jobless Pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to provide minimum standards for unemployment insurance to assure that workers would receive at least half their average weekly wage when eligible for unemployment benefits.

Nixon, in a message to Congress, also called for extending unemployment coverage to some 635,000 agricultural workers, with safeguards to insure aid to migrant workers as well.

Nixon said he also wanted a third major change in the unemployment insurance system "to preserve the neutrality" of the system during labor disputes.

He said the payment of unemployment insurance benefits to strikers and denying benefits to non-strikers in a labor dispute should be ended.

Beans Said Cheapest Source Of Body-Building Protein

WASHINGTON (AP) — Let's say you have a choice between a sizzling porterhouse or a serving of dry beans. Would your selection be influenced if you had to pay for it—and you knew the beans cost a 10th as much and had the same nutritional value?

Experts from the U.S. Department of Agriculture—wary of such ticklish items as food controls and meat boycotts—didn't pose the problem exactly that way today. But that's the way it came out.

What the USDA experts did was to put out some advice on how to stretch the food dollar for protein-rich, body-building foods necessary in family nutrition. They very carefully avoided any recommendations.

Measured in terms of February grocery prices, a six-cent serving of dry beans will provide the same amount of protein as 66 cents worth of porterhouse steak or 67 cents worth of lamb chops, the experts said.

Further, according to the USDA cost figures, when it comes strictly to meat and poultry, the best buys for protein-conscious shoppers are whole chicken and hamburger.

"One way to determine good buys among meats and meat alternates is to compare the costs of amounts ... that provide equal protein," the Agricultural Research Service said in a report.

Twenty grams of protein, for example, is about one-third of the recommended daily allowance for a 20-year-old man. A three-ounce serving of cooked lean beef, pork, lamb, veal, turkey or fish provides about 20 grams of protein or more.

Calloway Army Chief?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Howard "Bo" Calloway, a former one-term Republican representative from Georgia, is in line to become secretary of the Army, congressional and Pentagon sources report.

Calloway, now a GOP national committeeman, would replace Robert F. Froehke, the Army's civilian head for nearly two years.

Froehke is said to be anxious to return to the insurance business in Wisconsin.

A boyhood friend of former Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, Froehke came to the Pentagon as an assistant secretary of defense at the outset of the Nixon administration in 1969 and shifted to secretary of the Army in mid-1971.

Laird resigned early this year and has been succeeded by Elliot L. Richardson. A number of senior civilian office holders who served during the Laird regime have left the Defense Department and more are expected to do so within the next few months.

Woman Motorist Killed

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (AP) — A 45-year-old Point Pleasant, W.Va., woman has been killed in a single car mishap along U. S. 35 near here, police said.

Officials said Margaret Imogene Hart, 45, lost control of her car Wednesday on a patch of ice and slammed into a guard rail.

Median Age Advances

Feel a little bit older than you used to? Well, that is not surprising. Census Bureau statistics reveal the average American is growing older. Not only is the median age increasing, it is likely to rise more rapidly in the next decade or two. The reason for this is traceable to birth statistics. The young homemakers today are part of the generation boom which began with the close of World War II. They are more numerous than any other segment of the population, but they are having fewer children than the generations which preceded them.

The United States, if the birth rate continues at the present level of 2.03 per family or drops further, is approaching a zero growth rate. And that large segment of the population now in lower middle age will continue to age until it tilts the statistics in favor of the older segment.

At that point essential parts of the American dream like Social Security and pensions could become imbalanced, with a heavy withdrawal rate. It might be a good idea to begin thinking about that before it happens.

"...And another thing—she's never ready on time."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I perspire a great deal. It seems ridiculous to say that this condition almost dominates my life, but it does.

At work, particularly, my palms sweat so much that it interferes with my activity.

I am not unusually tense or nervous. Can anything be done about this? I am 34 years old.

Mr. L.R., Mich

Dear Mr. R.:

The condition you describe is known as hyperhidrosis. Excessive sweating of the hands and the feet sometimes exists without unusual perspiration of other parts of the body.

This annoying condition has been treated with many types of drugs, some taken internally, others applied locally. Some of the drugs in fact can cause marked dryness of the mouth, dizziness, and even blurring of the vision. For these reasons none of these drugs should ever be used without the specific suggestion of your doctor.

Tempting and persuasive mail-order advertisements suggest new "breakthroughs" with their drugs. These can be hazardous for people with other existing conditions.

A very exciting new surgical approach to this problem is now being tried with great enthusiasm at the Cleveland Clinic. The operation involves the sympathetic nerves, a part of the nervous system known to be responsible for sweating.

The results of this technique have been reported by Dr. Donald Dohn. In those cases in which this operation has been performed the results have been most gratifying.

Not all patients are candidates for the operation. Many factors besides age and general physical condition are involved.

I have tried everything to relieve the painful sores I get inside my lips and mouth. Are there any new ways of treating them?

Miss E.T., Nev

Dear Miss T.:

Many explanations have been offered for the recurrence of these aphthous ulcers of the mouth. None are completely satisfying. Poor dental hygiene, excessive fatigue, emotional stress, tobacco, alcohol, irritation by teeth, and drugs are only some of the factors thought to be responsible.

Applications of anesthetic medicines are temporarily helpful. Drugs like lactinex and bacid, purchased with the doctor's prescription, are sometimes beneficial.

In a recent edition of the medical journal, Consultant, Dr. Shafiq Ahmed made a simple suggestion that is worth trying. He says that fresh lemon juice mixed with table salt can be used to rinse the mouth. He suggests using a teaspoonful of this juice in diluted form three or four times a day. He thinks, too, that swallowing this mixture will make the ulcers or canker sores disappear in 24 hours.

Dr. Ahmed points out that he learned this simple treatment from his grandmother in Pakistan.

The medical wisdom of grandmothers should not always be taken lightly!

Business World

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The American way of life, primarily the quest for a cleaner, safe, more secure environment, is contributing inexorably to the problem of rising prices.

Cleaner air, safer cars and more employment security are some of the more positive and desirable factors that can lead to higher prices. But negatives, such as poor workmanship, are equally potent inflators.

Close to 37 million vehicles have been recalled in 6½ years for the correction of safety defects, at least some of which can be attributed to faulty workmanship at the design or assembly stage.

Another negative factor is theft. In a new book, "Security Control: Internal Theft," Bob Curtis, a business and government consultant on retail store theft comments:

"Employee theft is the most critical element in store inventory shortages. It accounts for an estimated 60 to 75 per cent of a store's losses, and nearly a third of all business failures...are brought about by employee theft."

Environmental issues, however, appear to be second only to rising demand itself in pushing up some prices, not just for gasoline, fuel oil and electricity but, it is claimed, for new housing also.

Advance Mortgage Corp., a home mortgage lender, claims that ecological restrictions already are pushing up prices in Washington, D.C., Southern California, the New York suburbs and less pronouncedly in Atlanta and Chicago.

"Paradoxically," says Irving Rose, president, "the ecological restrictions have increased demand. The news that they are in prospect converts future into present buyers. People rush to acquire their piece of Eden before the gates are shut."

Lumber suppliers and critics of U.S. land policy also claim that short supplies could be alleviated somewhat by permitting easier access to reserves on public lands.

Automobile safety standards are criticized as inflationary in this months First National City Bank "Monthly Economic Letter," which suggests that some requirements might be made less rigid and others optional.

It notes that an Office of Science and Technology report estimates the 1975-1976 federal standards could hike the retail price of a car by $350, or twice what industry officials believe would be the cost of less stringent California measures.

An Environmental Protection Agency report to Congress estimates that in 1977, when all federal controls on motor vehicles are scheduled to be effective, the annual costs will be more than $8 billion.

It is not only the demand for quantity that's pushing up prices; the demand for quality is, too.

Arcade Now A Landmark

CLEVELAND (AP)—Downtown Cleveland's Arcade, a glass-roofed, 5-story structure built in 1890, has been given National Register of Historic Places protection by the Interior Department.

The building's entry in the register, announced Tuesday, protects it from destruction by any federally funded project.

A Cleveland architect and the state preservation coordinator for the American Institute of Architects, Robert C. Gaede, said the roof was "a rather daring construction" for its time.

He called it a forerunner of modern shopping malls and said it has "held up rather well."

Its manager, Ellick B. Wasserman, said occupancy of the Arcade is 98 per cent. The 400-foot arcade stretching between two downtown streets has two levels of shops.

Welcome To Fat City

By JEFFREY HART

In recent months, hard-headed Congresswoman Edith Green (D-Ore.) has become something of a specialist in the operations of what she calls the "poverty-education-industrial complex," and she has succeeded in putting the spotlight on the vast network of interest groups financed by the foundations and by the Federal Government and making big money out of studies, research and policy recommendations on a whole range of supposed problems and crises.

Senator Edward Kennedy is moving shrewdly to cultivate this far-flung interest group by setting up for its benefit a couple of the porkiest barrels since the palmy days of old Honey Fitz himself.

Last year, Kennedy pushed Senate Bill S. 32 through the upper chamber. It would have authorized the expenditure of $1.8 billion to re-tool former defense-oriented scientists for more virtuous work in the civilian area. No doubt this project will sound laudable to some. Still, one of the prime lobbyists for the measure, Dr. Jeremy Stone, the director of the Federation of American Scientists, explained in a sudden seizure of candor that the $1.8 billion would really be "a pork barrel for the scientific community." Last year, S. 32 died in the House, but the push is on again for passage this session.

It is common enough knowledge that when you shake certain tax-free foundations Kennedy operatives fall out of the branches like autumn leaves. The foundations are their resting place between campaigns. But now Kennedy is establishing a second juicy pork barrel, this time at the expense of the Federal treasury.

Congress has established something called the Office of Technological Assessment, currently funded at $5 million, and commissioned it to study the "physical, biological, economic, social and political effects of technology." In other words, it's a Committee on the Universe.

Kennedy himself, the moving force behind the idea, has naturally enough been elected director of the policy-making board. Liberal Democratic Kennedy-type scientists like Jerome Wiesner of M.I.T. — who actually was a New Frontiersman and Cameloteer—and Herbert York of the University of California are in line for top posts. And, of course, the initial funding at $5 million is only the nose of the camel poking into the tent.

An outfit like this is bound to contract for all sorts of studies, projects, interdisciplinary seminars and junkets. Academic camp-followers of the Kennedys will once again be in Fat City. Vast needs will be discerned in the poverty-education-pollution area. Teams of social scientists will, after conducting expensive studies, discover new virtues in day-care centers, racial balance, busing, and whatnot.

If you think there's something to be said for the SST, the ABM or the Alaska pipeline, don't apply at this address.

In political terms, Kennedy is making life sweet for one of his natural constituencies. The operators in the poverty-education-industrial complex tend to be liberal Democrats, partly on ideological grounds, of course, but—and perhaps mainly—because a liberal Democratic administration opens the Federal spigot so much more widely.

And even as he moves to cultivate this constituency, and make sure it stays on the reservation, Kennedy is glancing elsewhere, preparing to journey to Montgomery, Ala., where he will appear on a platform honoring George Wallace. It will be fascinating to see what sort of additional pork barrels he comes up with in order to try to wrest those 140 Southern electoral votes away from the Republican column. Honey Fitz is long dead, but his spirit marcheth on.

Sohio Pact With Dealers Condemned

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Standard Oil Co. of Ohio service station lease contract puts the dealer "at great disadvantage," a Cleveland judge said in telling Sohio and Lorain service station operator Daniel Super to end their dispute over holiday operations.

Judge Bernard Friedman of the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court ordered that Sohio and Super, a service station operator for 16 years, must try to reach an agreement within 30 days.

If they do not, he said, he will bring them back into court and decide the matter himself.

The dispute centered on Sohio's contention that Super violated his contract with Sohio by refusing to open his station on holidays. Super contended it isn't profitable to do so.

The contract expired last Nov. 30. "To put in a contract that one must work 15 hours a day, work religious and legal holidays, is unfair," Friedman said. He added that the contract leans to the company's favor and that it gives the dealer no choice whether to operate on holidays.

But though Sohio's demand for compliance "appears to be against public policy," the contract's terms are legal, he said. He also said Super is entitled to an agreement.

4 Under Arrest In $100 Murder

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Bernedetta Grant, 29, and three men who police said helped her arrange a $100 contract for killing her husband are being held in the Summit County Jail here on first-degree murder charges.

The arrests were made Tuesday as Mrs. Grant returned from her husband's funeral.

In jail with her, police said, are Ord Toothman Jr., 21, described by police as the trigger man; Lawrence Haggerty, 29, who police said is Mrs. Grant's boyfriend, and Ralph Jimenez, 28, all of Akron.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Most men can't spell mayonnaise. At any one time—except when they are asleep—no more than two out of every ten people are usually free enough from fear, passion, financial troubles or loneliness to be called as sane and normal as they should be. When they are asleep, the number of normal people probably rises to two out of five—on good nights.

If you are over 40 and want to be shocked by how far you have failed physically, simply play a game of hopscotch with a 10-year-old girl.

The cheapest millionaires are those who smoke cigars. They will generously take you to lunch, but when you return to their office for a talk they will fish a big cigar from an expensive box of them on the desk and spend the next hour blowing smoke in your face. Rarely will they hold out the box to you and invite you to have one or a handful. To them the cigars are a kind of symbolic reward which only they deserve. If you need a free cigar, ask a cab driver—not a millionaire.

The reason I haven't taken up yoga, as many of my friends have, is that I figure if God had wanted me to be a pretzel, he would have made me one.

The ordinary adult feels about teenagers pretty much like Gelett Burgess felt about the purple cow—he'd rather see than be one. Speaking of Burgess, here are three more lines from this wry and partly forgotten humorist you may like: "Many people live alone and like it, but most of them live alone and look it." "To be two years a widow exceedeth a college education." "If the Lord would only send something interesting, I wouldn't mind if it was only a plaid pig."

Any girl who sticks a guy for a sirloin steak three times in a row when he takes her out to dinner doesn't deserve marriage anyway.

One out of three people who take up an office collection for any cause doesn't chip in a buck himself. And it isn't because he forgets to.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren
Wife Spies Out Truth

DEAR ABBY: Quite by accident I saw my husband's car parked in a strange place when he was supposed to be out of town on business. I hid and waited for him to return, and several hours later a young girl drove up with Bob in the car. He kissed her goodbye hurriedly, got into his own car, and drove off. I followed the girl home, rang her doorbell and told her who I was. She was shocked because she didn't know Bob was married. (She's 22, Bob is 41.)

I then drove home, and Bob acted glad to see me. He lied about the "business trip" and after giving him enough rope to hang himself, I told him what I had done. He was furious with me for "spying" on him, then he stormed out of the house. I immediately called his mother and told her the whole story. She very nonchalantly said: "What do you want ME to do, spank a 41-year-old man?"

Bob moved his clothes out of the house and refused to have anything to do with me. We have three children who need a father. I've begged him to forgive me, but he's still angry. Abby, why should I beg HIM to forgive ME? He should be begging ME to forgive HIM. How can I get him back?

REDEYES
DEAR RED: You may not be able to. Moral: A woman will forgive an unfaithful husband faster than a man will forgive an emasculating wife.
DEAR ABBY: I am an 18-year-old months in the beautiful sunny Florida.

Mrs. Linda Sites is a patient in Mercy Hospital.

Phyllis Bidwell is a surgical patient in Riverside Hospital.

Mr. Larry Sprague was released from Mt. Carmel Hospital Saturday.

David Parmenter has been promoted from corporal to sergeant. Davis is making the service a career and is stationed in California.

The Faith Baptist Church Missionary Society will be held at the Sprague residence on Monday April 16 at 7:30 p.m.

The Bob Trego annual Easter Egg Hunt will be at the Town Square in Commercial Point, on Easter Sunday at 2 p.m. Prizes galore! This is being sponsored by the Scioto Twp. Volunteer Fire Dept., the Community Men's Club, and Bob's Place — owner Bob Pifer.

girl, recently graduated from high school, and now I have a steady job that pays well.

I recently moved out of my parents' home to assume full responsibility for myself and my life.

My problem is this: I am constantly approached by adults who ask me why I left my parents' home. When I reply: "Because my parents have done so much for me that I decided it was time I did something for them," they look at me like I'm crazy.

Abby, that's the way I feel. I think the best way for children to repay their parents for all they have done is to become self-supporting and self-sufficient as soon as possible, and relieve parents of the responsibility.

In this day and age people are so used to condemning the youth for doing something wrong, they condemn them when they do something right. Or am I wrong?

INDEPENDENT IN OHIO
DEAR INDEPENDENT: Not every 18-year-old chick is able to leave the nest and become self-sufficient and self-supporting, but those who are deserve congratulations not criticism.

DEAR ABBY: I was taught that if you didn't have something you did without it, but we have neighbors who borrow, borrow, borrow and never return anything, and I am sick of it.

When they moved in next door they asked if they could borrow our phone, until they got theirs. Well, it has been five months and they still don't have their own phone, and I doubt if they even ordered one.

They started using our baby's stroller, and now they use it more than we do. It's a good one which I bought secondhand, cost $7 through an ad in the newspaper, and they could get one the same way if they tried.

I won't even mention the light bulbs, cigarettes, coffee and other things they have borrowed and never returned.

What should we do? If we were as crude as they were we wouldn't have a problem.

TAKEN ADVANTAGE OF
DEAR TAKEN: If you don't cut off the easy supply, they'll continue to take advantage of you indefinitely. Simply tell them you are not able to lend them anything anymore. You needn't be crude. Just be firm.

Dorothy Atkinson Honored With Retirement Party

A Retirement Party was held recently at the L-K Restaurant for Dorothy Atkinson after 17 years service with General Telephone Co.

Mrs. Atkinson has been with the Company since 1956. She served as chief operator at Cambridge from 1958 to 1963, transferred to Logan where she worked as an operator from 1963 to 1964 when she came to Circleville.

Musical entertainment was furnished by her grandchildren, Scott, Randy Tanya and Lori Atkinson. Scott played the violin, Randy the trombone, Tanya the piano and Lori the flute.

A "Gone With The Wind" lamp was presented from co-workers by Donna Gloyd, operator services manager. A plaque with Mrs. Atkinson's headset mounted on it was presented by Darwin Myers, division traffic manager.

Mrs. Atkinson plans to spend her time weaving after her retirement.

MRS. JAMES C. DEAL

Miss JoEllen Smalley Bride Of James C. Deal

Miss JoEllen M. Smalley became the bride of Mr. James C. Deal 8:30 p.m. March 23rd in Trinity Lutheran Church of Circleville. Pastor Carl G. Zehner performed the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mrs. Joseph E. Smalley, Route 4, Circleville and the late Mr. Joseph E. Smalley, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Deal Jr., Route 2, Ashville.

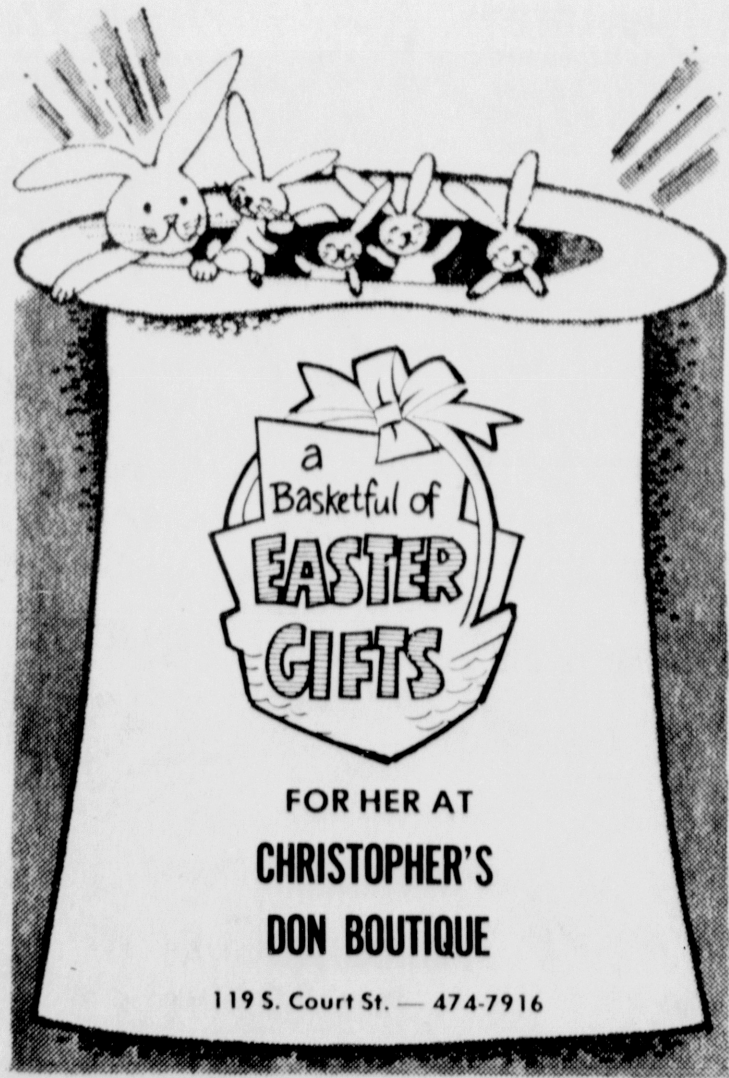

The church was decorated with altar vases holding pink snapdragons and carnations, green fugi mums, white iris and baby's breath. Palm trees banked each side of the front of the church, centered with a pair of topiary trees covered with boxwood and trimmed with pink carnations and green snow crystal mums and a white dove gracing each one.

An arrangement of white roses, pink carnations, green snow crystal mums and baby's breath was placed on the piano in memory of the bride's father. Decorating the pews on the center aisle were white metal holders containing arrangements of pink snapdragons and tulips, green carnations, snow crystal mums, white iris and baby's breath with sprengerie fern and green satin bows trailing down the side.

Mrs. Thomas Downing, organist and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Frank, vocalists, presented a program of music preceding the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Stephen Smalley, the bride selected for her wedding an ivory silk organza and cluny lace gown. The empire bodice featured a tucked bib edged in lace and self-covered buttons, with pink satin ribbon at the waistline. A high lace collar and modified bishop sleeves were enhanced with lace and pink satin ribbon. The same lace and tucking accented the skirt and her chapel length train was encircled with lace edging. The chapel length veiling of silk illusion was held in place by a cluny lace bonnet.

The bride wore an heirloom pink cameo necklace with an ivory teardrop that belonged to the groom's late grandmother, Mrs. Elsie Beckett. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay of antiqued stephanotis, pale pink Tammy roses, carnations, dried bleached yarrow and ivy leaves. The bouquet was graced with antique lace and pale pink streamers tied in lovers' knots.

Women's Civic Club Enjoys Fun Night

FUN TIME — Shown wearing the clothes she bought unseen during recent meetings of Ashville Women's Civic Club is Mrs. Stella Morrison during Fun Night.

Tom Weldon of the Pickaway County Wildlife Division showed a movie "Nature's Half Acre" at the Thursday evening meeting of Ashville Women's Civic Club in the First English Lutheran Church. Attending were 27 members.

It was the club's fun night when members donned outfits they had purchased in closed bags at previous meetings.

Barbara Hopper discussed program plans for 1973-74. Changes in the club's constitution will be discussed at the May meeting. It was decided that the club will take charge of the Heart Fund in Ashville for 1974.

The open May meeting will be held in the Lutheran Church with the Panel of American Women presenting the program.

John D. Herbert Faces Divorce Suit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Former State Treasurer John D. Herbert, whose promising political career collapsed following the 1970 state loan scandal, has been sued for divorce by his wife, Joanne.

The loan scandal, when it was disclosed the treasurer's office had illegally invested $12 million, occurred at the close of Herbert's term as he was seeking the Republican nomination for attorney general. He subsequently was defeated in the primary election.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

There are times when the new books pile up so high on my desk that nobody can find me. At the moment, only the top of my head emerges from stacks and stacks of new books. The paperbacks have arrived—hundreds of them! It may be June before I dig my way out from under this pile.

Generally, the new paper-backs fall into four categories; new fiction, old fiction (new copies of old favorites), picture books, and biographies. We do not often buy picture books in paper-back form. They take a lot of abuse, and seem to need the sturdy support of a hard cover. We decided to try a few, however, so these new picture books are now on the paper-back shelf.

"Clarence the TV Dog" by Patricia Lauber is about a brother and sister who acquire a new TV set and a new dog on the same day. (Their mother had not anticipated the arrival of either!)

"Mr. Rabbit and the Lovely Present" by Charlotte Zolotow is illustrated by the well-known children's artist, Maurice Sendak.

Collection Is Donated To France

PARIS (AP) — Pablo Picasso's family announced today that it is giving the artist's immensely valuable collection of paintings by his contemporaries to the French nation.

The gift, announced by the family's Paris attorney, Roland Dumas, does not include the enormous collection of works by Picasso which the artist never sold.

Art dealers are fearful that the market value of Picasso's work will collapse if the family is forced to sell off a substantial number of these paintings to pay inheritance taxes on the rest of his large fortune.

The collection being given to the nation is in the villa at Mougins, on the French Riviera, where Picasso died April 8 at the age of 91.

It includes paintings by Matisse, Modigliani, Dufy, Braque, Rousseau and others, and most have never been seen by the public.

"They are pictures which he had purchased since the beginning of the century and are works of the greatest painters of the modern period," Dumas said.

He added that the only condition attached to the donation was that the pictures should hang together on exhibit in the Louvre.

Picasso's legitimate son, Paulo, confirmed that his father left no will. In addition to his widow, Jacqueline, and Paulo, the artist is survived by two illegitimate daughters and an illegitimate son, and a legal battle may have to be fought through the French courts to determine the division of the estate.

Woman Crash Victim

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Funeral services are scheduled Saturday morning for Ruth H. Goble, 82, wife of a former Ohio adjutant general, who died Wednesday after being run over by a car in a downtown crosswalk.

New Freeze Urged

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The chairman of Federated Department Stores, Inc., has urged reimposition of mandatory wage and price controls to curb the "severe acceleration of inflation."

This book teaches the colors and names of fruit, and tells a story about a girl who is preparing a gift for her grandmother.

What does a four-year-old boy do when he suddenly realizes that he is in the middle of Lazarus, holding an empty glove that has slipped off his mother's hand? This all-too-familiar situation is the problem involved in "My Mother is Lost" by Bernice Myers. Can you imagine two, lost, four-year-old boys in the toy department?

"Madeline's Rescue—In Which Madeline Finds a Dog" actually begins with the dog finding Madeline, who has just fallen into the river. Madeline is rescued by the dog, and repays him by inviting him to live with her at her boarding school. Those of you who are familiar with Ludwig Bemelman's stories about Madeline will particularly enjoy this one. The dog in Madeline's boarding house creates quite a bit of excitement.

"What Whiskers Did" by Ruth Carroll is one of those books with no words—just pictures. These books inspire the child to use his imagination, and create his own story. Perhaps the story your child will create from these pictures may be entirely different from the story Ruth Carroll had in mind when she drew them.

Do you know how to cure a jelly sandwich lover? Russell and Lillian Hoban's friend, Frances, would eat nothing but bread and jam, until that was all he was offered! Bread and jam for breakfast, bread and jam for lunch, bread and jam for dinner. "Bread and Jam For Frances" taught him to appreciate spaghetti!

Well, that takes care of the first pile, and now I can see daylight. I can even look out my window! What ever happened to Spring?

Mrs. Pastor wrote the tongue-in-cheek instructions for the nine-member committee. Here are some of her rules that Roberts never heard of: —"Speakers' table to seat 12 — facing tormentors."

—"Microphones: Four on speakers' table. I am told that each mike will accommodate two people. Since there are nine members of the committee, a vote will be taken to determine which member remains silent. There will be two speakers in the hall and I forgot how many in the main room!!!"

—"Committee Protection: Four highway patrolmen, led by Sgt. Jensen. (These have all been checked and found fearless????). Four Senate pages wearing party hats or some other means of identification."

—"Others: Nine members of the ERA Committee, one LSC (Legislative Service Commission) helpmate, one legislative intern, one half-witted secretary, eight ashtrays."

—"Facilities: There will be access to the little girls' room, the other room and public telephones."

And, for the kicker on her personalized instructions, Mrs. Pastor wrote: "Instructions will be given on how the Senate members of the committee can reach the speakers' table without going through the main hearing room to avoid molesting."

Goodin Recommended As New FBI Chief

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Cincinnati Police Chief Carl V. Goodin was recommended Wednesday as a successor to J. Edgar Hoover as head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation by Rep. William J. Keating, R-Ohio.

Keating urged the appointment in a letter to President Nixon.

Goodin, 39, said the consideration "was totally unexpected."

Stop saving for a new home!

You probably have more than you need to build your dream home now.

You've been saving for that large down payment on a new home. But you really don't need it!

Stop saving — because you can get started building your Ridge home right now!

You'll find the whole exciting story in the new Ridge Homes magazine, "Planning, Choosing and Building the Home That's Right for Your Family." In its 88 colorful pages, you'll see how you can own your dream home sooner than you thought. The feature article is by Francis Reers, a Ridge customer who started building his home with hardly any out-of-pocket cash.

One month's rent could be all the cash you need to start building your home. Like Francis Reers, if you own a building lot or can get one, a month's rent might be all you need to build the Ridge home of your choice.

Your choice: that means you can custom-design a home just like the Reers family did. And they saved $4000 by doing some of the interior finishing. Those savings meant they could add luxuries they hadn't dreamed of before. And Ridge even made the financing easy for them.

You get exactly the home that suits your family. It starts with a selection from 35 basic Ridge models, all shown in the Ridge magazine. And you'll see floor plans, kitchens, bathrooms, color schemes and options galore.

And Ridge Homes has mortgage money, too!

As one of the largest home builders in the U.S., we have financial resources to help our customers build their homes. So mortgages are never a problem.

Join the 25,000 families who stopped paying rent, and moved into the new homes they thought they couldn't afford. Stop saving for that new home, and start living in it. Get your free copy of the Ridge Homes magazine at your Ridge dealer's. Or mail the coupon today.

Mining Safety Device Readied

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A battery-powered device that looks like a fluorescent light bulb is being hailed as an invention that will save miner's lives by alerting them to possible deadly roof falls.

The device, known as the WEBKO mine safety detection post, will be manufactured by McBride Industries of nearby St. Albans, which anticipates daily production of 50 to 100 of the posts.

Company president Don McBride Wednesday said the posts are inserted beneath mine roofs and, with the aid of sensitive springs, can determine surface disturbances that could cause roof collapses and flash warning lights to miners.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A proposal to establish a code of ethics for state legislators and other public officials came under fire Wednesday night from the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio.

Benson A. Wolman, the group's executive director, assailed the measure on several fronts but said the "gravest threat" posed by it is one that would entrust "basically private data" to a state ethics commission created by the bill.

The House State Government Committee is considering the bill which would, in addition to setting up the commission, require all elected state and local officials to disclose their income and the sources of their income. The commission would have authority to initiate investigations and to remove officials from office.

Chairman Michael Del Bane, D-56 Hubbard, accepted proposed amendments to the measure by Rep. Patrick J. Sweeney, D-6 Cleveland, but said they would not be voted on until next Tuesday night.

Wolman told the committee that despite "the reasonable attempt" in the bill to assure that disclosures would be kept confidential, "past performances of the state administration...indicate you must make a strong presumption these safeguards you build into this bill may very well be circumvented."

The ACLU official said he questioned the handling of a recent investigation in the Commerce Department's Securities Division in which "dozens and dozens" of state employees had their private affairs held up to scrutiny when they were under no suspicion of wrongdoing.

Wolman said all that kept the private lives of those employees from being destroyed was the "relatively responsible manner in which the press handled that matter, given what was made available to them."

Among the amendments to be considered by the committee is one that would eliminate a requirement that public officials must disclose the dollar amounts of their annual income. Proponents of that amendment contend that disclosure of sources would be sufficient to identify possible conflicts of interest.

Another proposed amendment would exclude state and local governmental employees with small incomes so long as their jobs do not involve policymaking. The committee is expected to vote on the measure next Tuesday after consideration of the amendments.

Ban On Cambodian Bombing Gains Support In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate support is mounting today for a ban on continued U.S. bombing in Cambodia.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., principal sponsor of a bill to limit presidential war powers, said he is no longer committed to an exemption for "present hostilities."

A dozen Democratic senators joined in co-sponsoring separate legislation that would cut off funds for any military action in Cambodia not specifically approved by Congress.

Javits said the exemption of present hostilities in the warpowers bill before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is a carry-over from last year's Senate-passed bill.

He said the exemptions were written before the Vietnam cease-fire agreement and return of American prisoners.

Conditions prompting a desire not to "rock the boat" no longer exists, Javits said.

The bill, with 60 co-sponsors, would permit the president to send U.S. troops into combat without approval of Congress only for 30 days under certain conditions.

Troops could be sent to repel attack or meet the imminent threat of attack on the United States and its armed forces and to rescue Americans imperiled abroad or at sea.

As Senate hearings continued on the war-powers bill, a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee scheduled a meeting to decide on its own version.

The House committee had before it the Senate bill and another which passed the House last year requiring the president to report to Congress the factors behind his commitment of troops to combat.

A third bill being considered by the House would require the president to stop military action if either house of Congress disapproved.

It's Time For Butterfly Roundup

SHAFTER, Calif. (AP) — It's roundup time down on the butterfly ranch.

Top hands John Nickelsen and Carlos White are gathering their crop of butterfly larvae for shipment to the Easter market.

The partners in one year have developed a thriving business selling larvae to schools so children can observe the growth process that turns a drab caterpillar into a beautiful butterfly.

Nickelsen said they sold 15,000 sets of five larvae at $6 a set last year and expect to do even better this year.

One of their peak selling seasons is Easter.

Entomologists Nickelsen and White got into butterfly wrangling because their regular business—checking insects on 45,000 acres of field crops under contract to farmers—slacks off to almost nothing in the winter.

“Three years ago we tried raising loopers (a moth pest) to sell to chemical companies for testing of new materials,” said Nickelsen. “There was no volume, no regularity of orders and no profits. So then we got the idea of selling the loopers to schools to teach children about the life cycle of the caterpillar that becomes a moth.”

But loopers were a dud—the pest is unwelcome in interstate commerce.

Then they settled on butterflies: the red-and-black Painted Lady and the light brown Buckeye with red and purple spots.

“We raise butterflies in cages like cattle in corrals on a ranch,” said Nickelsen. “We strip their eggs off host plants and then the eggs are incubated and the larvae are allowed to grow to about a quarter inch long.

“We place five larvae and the required feed in an eight-ounce plastic container and ship them to schools and individuals. The whole growth process takes about 30 days. Butterflies can be kept in captivity up to two weeks but we advise that they be let go before that time is up.”

The butterfly spread, which operates under the name Insect Lore Products, covers about 2,000 square feet of laboratory and warehouse space in Shafter, a farming center in Southern California's San Joaquin Valley. It is about 100 miles north of Los Angeles.

Tax Evasion Case Set For Sentencing

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—U.S. District Court Judge Don Young ordered a probationary report Tuesday before sentencing Dewitt Campnell of Lima on charges of income tax evasion and conspiracy to violate federal tax laws.

Campnell pleaded no contest to the charges. The Internal Revenue Service said he failed to report income of $18,188 in 1967 and the conspiracy charge stemmed back to 1964.

Sowle Says School Funds Not Enough

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio University President Claude R. Sowle Wednesday said Gov. John J. Gilligan's April 5 proposal concerning higher education funding is better than he first thought, but that it doesn't go far enough.

Last week Gilligan proposed to raise subsidies to state universities a total of 8 per cent. He had originally proposed a 3 per cent subsidy and a 3 per cent student tuition increase. Under the new proposal there will be no student fee increases.

Gilligan made the new proposal after it was discovered that state taxes would produce $118 million more than had originally been estimated. Gilligan proposed that the bulk of that excess money go for education.

Sowle had denounced the new proposal when it was first announced, because he believed Gilligan was proposing a total increase of 5 per cent.

The university president attributed his present encouragement to Ohio Board of Regents Acting Chancellor William Coulter's interpretation that the governor was proposing an 8 per cent increase.

Coulter had said earlier that he thought his board would find Gilligan's proposal acceptable.

Bowling Green State University President Hollis Moore Tuesday applauded the governor for the increase.

Plane Crash Investigated

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — A twin-engine plane made a forced landing in a snowstorm on a farm northeast of Wilmington early today, but its pilot escaped injury.

The pilot was identified as Edward Audet of Detroit. The Clinton County Sheriff's Department said he was the only person on board the plane.

Air traffic controllers at Dayton said Audet was on a cargo flight from Buffalo, N.Y., to Louisville, Ky., when one engine failed.

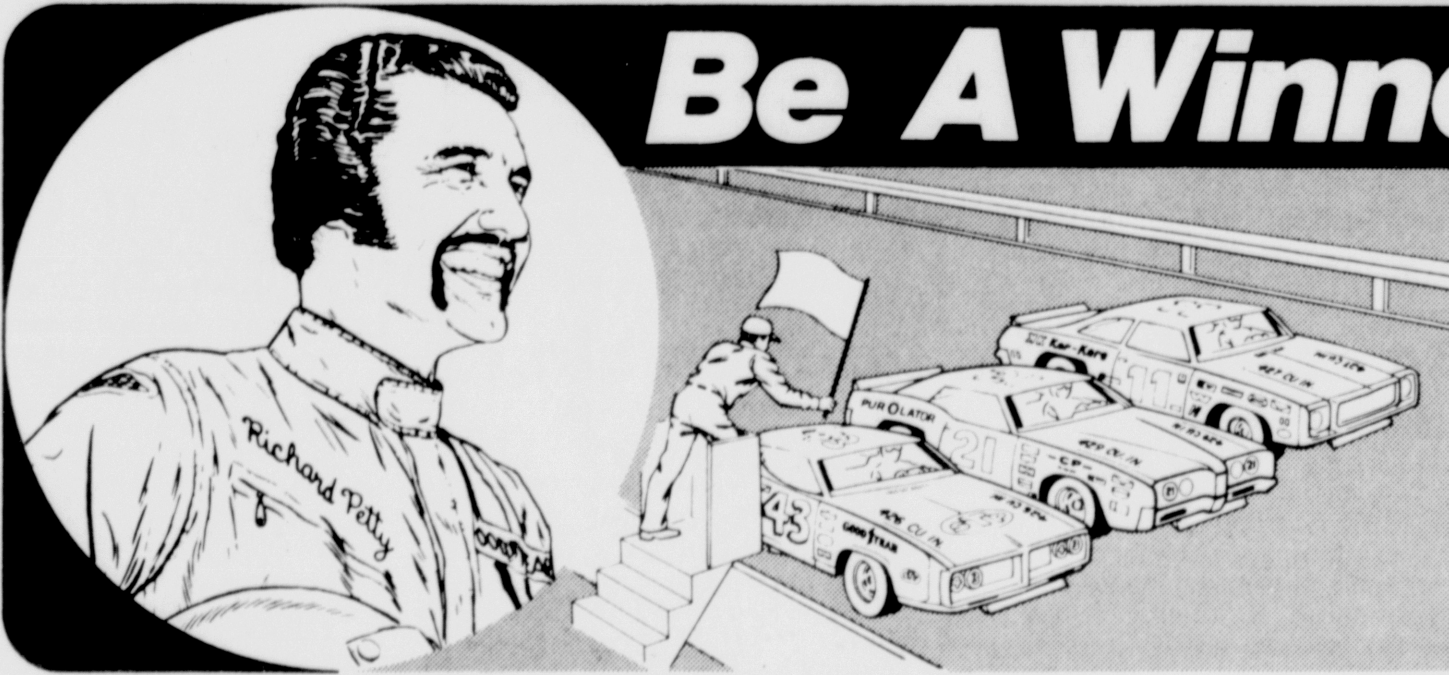

Dayton controllers routed the plane, a Beechcraft B-18, to the abandoned Clinton County Air Force Base, but it disappeared from their radar screen still short of the field.

Audet told sheriff's deputies he had the field in sight, but did not have power to reach it before he hit the ground.

The owner of the aircraft was not immediately identified.

Health Funds Paid

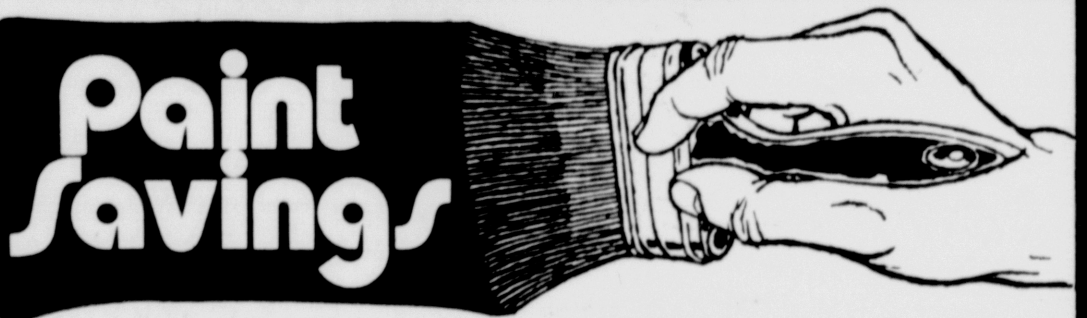

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— State Welfare Director Charles Bates announced his department paid out $4.4 million in bills to health providers during the first week in April, about double the amount paid in the first week of March.

Tigers Cop SCOL Win Over Greenfield, 8-4

A five-run outburst in the second inning and a strong relief pitching performance by Phil Roll gave Circleville an 8-4 win over Greenfield Wednesday on a frigid Red and Black diamond.

Perry Hoskins opened on the hill for the Roundtowners but ran into control trouble, giving up two runs and seven walks before being relieved by Greg Hoskins with two out in the second.

Roll took over in the third frame and went the rest of the way to gain his first win of the season. The sophomore righthander allowed two runs, four hits, three walks and fanned six.

Carle went five innings for Greenfield, allowing eight runs, one earned, six hits, four walks and struckout seven. Willett hurled the last frame, holding Circleville hitless and scoreless.

McClain jumped out to a 2-run lead in the top of the first and loaded the bases in the second only to have Greg Hoskins put out the fire on an infield out.

But the Red and Black came to life in the bottom of the second when five runners dented the plate. Paul England beat out an infield hit, Steve Allen walked, Mike Speakman was safe on an infield error to load the sacks.

Greg Hoskins drew a walk to score England with the first run, John Ankrom was safe on an error and Allen tallied, Tom Taylor slammed a single to plate Speakman and Dave Truex blasted a two-bagger to score Hoskins and Ankrom.

Greenfield bounced back in the top of the third with a pair of markers on two walks, a wild pitch and singles by Carle and Raikes.

It was Circleville the rest of the way as Roll kept McClain scoreless. Allen tallied a single marker for Circleville in the third and the Red and Black capped the scoring with two runs in the fifth.

England led off with a triple and tallied on a single by Speakman.

Speakman plated the final run on a double steal.

The Circleville attack was led by England with a triple and single, Truex had a double while Ankrom, Taylor and Speakman each had a single. Truex had a pair of RBI's while Ankrom, Taylor, Speakman and Greg Hoskins each plated a runner.

Flynn had a pair of singles for Greenfield and Carle and Raikes each had a one-bagger. Raikes had two RBI's.

"Our kids played extremely well when you consider we have not been outside since Saturday," Circleville Coach Dan Fouts commented, "but we came up with the hits when we needed them. This was a big win for us as it puts us back into the league race."

Circleville is now 2-1-1, all in league play, and will host Washington C.H. 4:30 p.m. Friday. The reserve squad is slated at Washington C.H. today and at home with Greenfield 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Logan Elm Edges Adena In Key SVC Tilt, 5-3

The Logan Elm baseball team, a co-champion of the Scioto Valley Conference last year, opened defense of its title Wednesday with a 5-3 win over visiting Adena.

"It was a big win for us," LE Coach Vic Pontius reported. "I don't think anybody else in the conference will beat Adena." The Warriors are 2-1 overall and 0-1 in the league.

The win gives the Braves a 4-0 overall record. Doug Marshall was the winning pitcher, boosting his record to 2-0 for the season. Going the route, he walked two, fanned 11 and was touched for ten hits.

Randy Hill was the losing pitcher, and except for a big fifth inning turned in a stellar mound performance for the Warriors. He walked two, whiffed six and was touched for 12 hits.

Adena went on top with a run in the third inning. With two out, Randy Beverly singled, moved to second on a walk and scored on a single by Hill. Then in the top of the fifth Adena took a 2-0 lead when with one out Beverly walked, stole second and scored on Hill's second RBI single of the night.

In the bottom of the fifth, the Braves came to life. The inning was sparked by Mark Justus' double to right center field with one out. Gary Francis beat out an infield hit and Justus advanced to third on the attempt to get Francis at first.

The Warriors tried to get Justus out at third, but the throw was wild, allowing him to score and Francis to advance to third. Doug Marshall singled to drive in Francis with the tying run. Greg Justus then beat out an infield single and Steve DeBruin bunted safely to load the bases. Scott Pontius singled to right center to drive in Marshall and Justus with what proved to be the two winning runs.

In the bottom of the sixth LE added an insurance run when Mike Holbrook walked, moved to third on Mark Justus' third hit of the game, a single, and scored on a sacrifice fly to short center by Gary Francis.

In the top of the seventh, Adena's first man up doubled, moved to third on a fielder's choice and scored on an error. It was nearly dark when Marshall ended the game by striking out an Adena hitter.

Mark Justus was the big hitter for the Braves, collecting three in four trips to the plate. Pontius was two for two, Steve DeBruin and Gary Francis both two for three. Holbrook, Marshall and Justus each had one hit.

Francis, who handled six assists, was credited with an outstanding defensive job at shortstop by Coach Pontius.

The next game for Logan Elm is at home against Piketon Friday. In a recent game, Piketon was an 8-7 loser to East Clinton in nine innings.

Detroit Goof Gives

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

In our computerized society, baseball remains a nearly unique business where humans still operate and success or failure depends on men, not machines.

Detroit Manager Billy Martin isn't so sure he likes that old fashioned arrangement.

Martin's Tigers dropped a 3-1 toughie in 12 innings against Baltimore Wednesday and the box score tells you that designated hitter Tommy Davis doubled home the deciding run. Don't you believe that. Tiger left fielder Jim Northrup is the guy who doubled it home.

Northrup misjudged Davis' fly ball and it fell for two bases and brought home the winning run.

Elsewhere in the American League Wednesday, the New York Yankees proved that Gaylord Perry is no machine, beating Cleveland's ace, 4-0, Oakland defeated Chicago 12-2, Kansas City defeated Texas 9-6, and California beat Minnesota 4-1.

Martin spent some extra time in the shower, letting the steam escape from his ears before emerging to discuss Baltimore's winning hit.

"That ball was a routine fly," said Martin. "It was a human part of the game. Northrup just came in and the ball went over his head."

That's what happens when you depend on humans instead of machines.

The Tigers, whose only run came on Norm Cash's second homer of the season, were leading 1-0 in the seventh when designated hitter Davis singled home the tying run.

Then, in the 12th, Don Baylor doubled and dashed home with the deciding run as Northrup turned Davis' fly ball into another double.

Baltimore 3-1 Victory

Merv Rettenmund's single delivered an insurance run.

Mei Stottliemyre's two-hitter beat Perry for the Yankees. New York battered the Cleveland ace for 12 hits, three of them by Bobby Murcer, who managed only two hits all of last season against Perry.

Stottliemyre, who turned in his 37th career shutout, ended the Yankees' four-game start-of-season losing streak. He knew he would have to pitch well to do it.

"Against Perry," he said, "you'd better come close to a shutout or forget it."

You can't come closer than Stottliemyre did.

Vida Blue spaced eight hits and Oakland used home runs by Joe Rudi, Sal Bando and Angel Mangual to defeat Chicago. It was the first victory for the world champion A's following three losses.

John Mayberry ripped a three-run homer in the first inning, igniting Kansas City's victory over Texas. It was the fourth straight triumph of the young season for the Royals.

Nolan Ryan fired a five-hitter and struck out 11, pitching California to a 4-1 decision over Minnesota.

Vada Pinson homered for the Angels.

Celtics Defeat Hawks In Playoffs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With Boston's hockey team out of the playoff picture and Boston's basketball team, down 54-46 at the half after losing two straight to the Atlanta Hawks in its NBA playoff series, there was the temptation to look at Boston's winter sports teams and say: "One down, one to go."

But that old cliché must have been blasphemy to the Celtics' John Havlicek. He scored 32 points, 20 after the intermission Wednesday night, to lead the Celtics to a 108-101 victory over the Hawks and in so doing turned the series and cliché around.

The Celtics now have a 3-2 lead in the best-of-7 series and for them it's: three down, one to go.

In Wednesday's only other basketball action, Kentucky defeated Carolina 113-103 to take a 1-0 advantage in the ABA's Eastern Division finals.

Tonight Utah and Indiana will meet in the opening game of the ABA's Western Division finals at Salt Lake City.

Just like their co-tenants at the Boston Garden, the Bruins, the Celtics were missing an important element in their attack. When the Bruins aren't skating they're losing. Likewise, when the Celtics aren't running they're in trouble.

In the first half the Celtics were in plenty of trouble. "We weren't running," said Havlicek commenting on the first half in which Boston hit only 33 per cent of its shots. "In the second half we tried to create the same situation we had in our first two wins by doing more running and going with fewer set plays."

For most teams, playing a more heiter skelter brand of basketball is not the answer. But the Celtics don't have overwhelming size and must rely on its chief asset—speed.

"We don't have a big physical team," said Boston guard Jo Jo White, who had 16 second period points on his way to a 28-point night. "But we have speed."

For the record, there is no NBA statistic for running, but a look at the number of Boston foul shots is the indicator. When a team is running, they get fouled. It's that simple. The Celtics hit 32 of 35 foul shots with Havlicek going 12 for 14 at the line while Don Nelson scored 12 of his 16 points at the foul line.

Anderson Keeps Gullett Healthy; Reds Top Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When Cincinnati lefthander Don Gullett slipped off the mound in the ninth inning, Manager Sparky Anderson slipped off the bench.

Since the National League champion Reds already have lost ace Gary Nolen indefinitely with arm trouble, should anything happen to Gullett it would be hard to color the National League West Red again.

"He slipped and stepped in a hole," Anderson said after the Reds, behind the eight-hit pitching of Gullett, Pedro Borbon and Tom Hall, had dispatched Los Angeles, 4-1. "He felt a twinge or a strain in his left ankle. That's why I took him out. But I think he'll be all right."

The victory was Cincinnati's third in five games while the sputtering Dodgers now have dropped five of their first six including three straight.

Thursday night Andy Messersmith makes his Dodger Stadium debut, against the Reds' Jack Billingham. Both are 0-0.

Gullett had restricted the Dodgers to six hits through eight innings and had a three-run advantage, thanks to back-to-back home runs by Tony Perez and Cesar Geronimo in the fourth and a two-run first inning, sparked by Joe Morgan's slicing triple down the left-field line.

But with one out and Steve Garvey at second, the result of an error on shortstop Darrel Chaney, Gullett pulled up lame while pitching to Gron Cey.

"He just couldn't drive off his left foot and I had to take him out," Anderson said.

"We never really had Gullett last year," he said, mentioning the lefthander's hepatitis which prevented him from more than a 9-10 season. "But this could really be the year for him."

The Dodgers, who were frustrated time after time Tuesday night in a 12-inning 4-3 loss in Houston which Manager Walter Alston called "the strangest game I've ever seen," were haunted again the first play of the game when Pete Rose looped a little pop up over Cey's head at third base. Cey couldn't get it and neither could shortstop Bill Russell. But umpire Frank Pulli got it—Russell barreling into him.

With Rose at first, Morgan then tripled and later scored on a sacrifice fly by Bobby Tolan.

Don Sutton, 0-2, got nine Reds in order before Perez and Geronimo unloaded in the fourth, the first homers for both.

Gullett lost his shot at a shut' out in the sixth when Bill Buckner signaled but was forced by Willie Davis. Joe Ferguson, who has three doubles and two home runs to account for his six hits this season, doubled home Davis for the Dogers' only run.

Circleville Golfers Take Tri Match

Greg Williams fired a 37, including two birdies and four pars, to pace the Circleville Tigers to victory in a triangular match with Brookhaven and Unioto Wednesday at the Pickaway Country Club.

Circleville downed Brookhaven, 8-0, and topped Unioto, 7-3. Unioto beat Brookhaven, 6-2.

Williams' 37 was good for two points against Brookhaven and 1½ against Unioto. The Tigers' Terry Spellacy carded a 39, including six pars, to take a pair of points against both opponents.

Jeff Spires had a 41 and copped two points in each match. J. C. Timberlake's 43 was good for a pair of points against Brookhaven and accounted for 1½ markers with Unioto. Bruce Brudzinski carded a 51 against Unioto.

Brock led Unioto with a 38 while McArtor and Derovaux both had a 42 for Brookhaven.

Circleville will be at Chillicothe Friday.

Stoutsville News

By MRS. A. B. WYNKOOP — 474-5922

The Stoutsville Trinity Lutheran Church held a memorial carryin dinner for Mrs. Jeannette (Wenrich) Schumann in appreciation for her years of service as church pianist and organist, April 8.

The dinner was attended by the congregations of Stoutsville and St. Jacobs Lutheran of Tarlton. Mrs. Schuman was accompanied by her cousin, Mrs. Blanche Metzger. Between 50 and 60 guests were present for the dinner. Afterward the Lenten Service was held, attended by additional guests who were present when the Rev. Zeitlow presented Mrs. Schuman with a folder which contains the picture of Christ on the left and short biography of Mrs. Schuman dedicating her years of service and also recognition of her father, Rev. John Wenrich, who was pastor for many years.

Mrs. Louise Byers of Columbus and Mrs. Charles Shupe of Lancaster called on Mr. and Mrs. Gene Wynkoop and Mrs. A. B. Wynkoop and A. B. Wynkoop at the nursing home Tuesday.

Mrs. Jean Alkire, Mrs. Diann Reed, Mrs. Lottie Liff, Mrs. Luci Schumm and Mrs. Kathryn Wynkoop of Cyprus Temple Pythian Sisters were among those attending the 64th anniversary of the founding of Ashville Temple Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Edna Disbennett and family of Lancaster visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Rogers Saturday.

St. John WSCS met at the home of Shirley Smith April 3. Agnes Marshall was leader. She had the opening devotions and an interesting study.

The president conducted the business session. The secretary read the report of the March meeting and Shirley Smith gave the treasurer's report. The social and local secretary spoke of work we might be able to do.

The hostess served a delicious lunch to the following: Mrs. Carole Hemming, Beatrice and Agnes Marshall, Rose Leist, Evelyn Gray, Elva Anderson, Edna Marshall and the three little Smith boys.

Mr. and Mrs. Estell Salyers and family of near Circleville and Mrs. Leona Rife were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Conrad.

Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Floyd were Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Harrison and Tara of Circleville. Their Saturday evening visitors were Robin and Donna Allison.

Mrs. Hazel McKinny of Lancaster was the Saturday overnight guest of relatives.

POW Wife, 2 Children Are Sought

HIGHLAND HEIGHTS, Ky. (AP)—The wife and two children of returned prisoner of war Michael Branch were the object of a search Wednesday night.

Lawmen were seeking Branch's estranged wife Marilyn after Branch filed a divorce suit Wednesday and won temporary custody of his daughter and son.

Branch's lawyer William Hagedorn of Newport said a deputy sheriff went to the home of Mrs. Branch's mother in Alexandria but reported the three were not there.

Branch, 26, was granted custody of Tamara, 7, and Michael, 5, until further notice by Campbell County Circuit Court Judge Paul Stapleton.

The divorce suit says Branch and his wife Marilyn, were married in 1965 and separated May 4, 1968, the day he was captured by the Viet Cong.

Branch was released last month after almost five years of captivity. Branch testified at a custody hearing in Indianapolis, Ind., that he had been denied the right to see his children upon return from Vietnam.

Hagedorn said the suit was filed in Kentucky to avoid "innumerable technicalities" in obtaining an Indiana court's custody order certified in Kentucky.

Chief Attacks Court Delays

WASHINGTON (AP)—Carl V. Goodin, Cincinnati police chief, brands as "atrocious" the overloaded trial dockets that he says rob him of the equivalent of 40 policemen annually.

Goodin told the House Committee Tuesday that his officers lose a great deal of time in waiting in court for the beginning of cases at which they are scheduled to appear.

"Some cases run (and are delayed) as long as a year," Goodin said. "This is one of the greatest frustrations of any policeman."

Rare Double Birth Noted In Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati physicians have reported a rare double birth which they say a search of medical records shows has been matched perhaps once before.

Two baby girls were delivered to a Cincinnati woman March 31 from separate uteri that were fertilized at different times.

Dr. Stephen Hornstein said he has been able to find only one case "remotely similar" and that occurred in the Soviet Union.

He said the woman has individual uteri, two mouths of the womb and two cervixes.

One of the infants was delivered by Caesarean section. Both were considered six weeks premature, hospital officials said. The infants now each weight more than four pounds, and are reportedly doing well.

Hornstein said the dual birth is a "historical case" not only due to its unusual nature, but because of the scientific data gathered once the phenomena was detected.

He described the babies as "litter mates"—not twins. "They were born at the same time but came from different eggs and grew to maturity in different uteri," he said.

Hornstein said other cases of divided uteri have been recorded "but the degree of split usually is not that great."

Hornstein, who along with Dr. Tom Barden handled the births, said the chances of another such dual birth "is most unlikely. I would say probably one in a million."

'State Of Emergency' 40 Years Old In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Senate committees open hearings today on legislation to limit presidential emergency powers.

A bill before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee would put a 30-day limit on presidential use of the armed forces abroad without congressional approval.

Leaders of a special Senate committee proposed a similar limitation on extraordinary presidential powers upon proclamation of a national emergency.

Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., said staff research for their special committee on Termination of the National Emergency discloses that the United States has been in a continuous state of emergency for 40 years with at least 580 laws giving the president extra powers during such an emergency.

Church and Mathias said under some of those powers the president may "seize properties, mobilize production, seize commodities, institute martial law, seize control of all transportation and communications, regulate private capital, restrict travel, and, in a host of particular ways, control the activities of all American citizens."

The special committee was established to determine what would be involved in terminating the emergency proclaimed by President Harry S. Truman on Dec. 16, 1950, at the outbreak of the Korean War.

A staff study disclosed that the nation still is not out of the economic emergency declared March 9, 1933, to give President Franklin D. Roosevelt authority to close the banks and take other extraordinary steps to end the depression.

Church and Mathias, in a joint statement, said it is not enough to declare the Great Depression and the Korean hostilities over, because the president at any time can proclaim another emergency.

A review is needed of all the statutes conferring additional powers in time of emergency, repealing those outdated, saving those that need to be permanent law, and recasting others with a built-in termination deadline, they said.

They suggested legislation to limit presidential emergency powers to only 30 days without congressional approval. They also proposed that a state of national emergency should not extend longer than six months without review and reinstatement for another six months by Congress.

Laurelville News

By MRS. RAY POLING

The Laurelville Church of God Missionary Society met April 5 in the church basement.

The meeting was opened with prayer led by Marilyn Fry. Devotions from the book of James were read by Joe Hardman. Poems were read by Thelma Johnson and Jo Hardman.

Each member signed get well cards to be sent to the sick. Members were asked to serve at the Laurelville Alumni Banquet on May 19, and a menu was suggested.

Plans were made to attend the prayer retreat at Maringo and Bridgeport in the near future.

Homemade noodles will be made April 12, to be sold for a money-making project. It was also discussed to bring non-perishable food for needy families. Each lady was asked to bring articles for a Sunshine Basket for a sick child.

The meeting was closed with a prayer by Shirley Marino. Refreshments were served by Marilyn Fry.

House Sustains

Nixon's Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says America's consumers and taxpayers will be eventual winners because of veto-sustaining victories in Congress by what he calls his courageous though outnumbered supporters.

The Constitution's demand of a two-thirds majority for a congressional override of a presidential veto enabled Nixon to post a 51-vote victory Tuesday in the year's first test of House willingness to force him to spend money appropriated by Congress.

"Ahead lie further tests which will demand from us the same measure of courage and cooperation," Nixon said after his veto of a $120-million rural water-and sewer-grant bill was sustained.

It was his second veto victory of the year. The Senate last week sustained his rejection of a bill authorizing a $2.6-billion program for rehabilitating the handicapped.

The President thanked those who upheld him on those bills. The House, he said, demonstrated it has courage to take a firm stand in favor of consumers and taxpayers. Congress, he said, should "stay the course with me in keeping a tight rein on the federal budget."

The Senate originally approved the rehabilitation bill 86 to 2 when just a simple majority was needed but Nixon emerged a four-vote victor in the 60-36 veto decision.

Charity Swackhammer and Sharon Layman.

Gilbert Walton of Laurelville entered the Veteran's Hospital at Huntington, W. Va., last week.

Miss Cathy Norton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Norton, is in Children's Hospital for treatment.

Last Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Noggle were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dufford and family of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. David Lehman and son Troy, and Mr. Gilbert Walton of Adelphi.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Reff of Lancaster and Mr. and Mrs. James Shaw and family were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McCabe.

The United Methodist Women met Thursday evening at the church with Mrs. Robert West and Mrs. Rodney Ross as hostesses. Opening prayer was given by the president, Mrs. Grace Dumm. Members who are ill were reported on.

Program was given by Mrs. Mary Ann DeLong, titled "Rejoice". Scripture was read by Mrs. Dorothy McClelland. The program was read in response. Mrs. Mary Ann DeLong sang a solo "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked."

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Ed Smith returned home from Mt. Carmel Hospital last week.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This Aries can be a difficult day and evening, not because it is a Friday 13, but because the planetary vibrations bring the tendency for most of us to be touchy, exasperated and intolerant. But if you control these impulses and use kindness and courtesy with others, you can have a fine day p.m.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have many duties ahead of you, so don't rush off on any tangents, but carry through conscientiously. Get away from some trap from persons who like to blame others for their misfortune. Sleep well tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are apt to look at yourself in a wrong light, so be kind to yourself instead. Don't spend too much money today. Make sure you do not lose your temper with anyone and get along better.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you get those duties handled at home early you can relieve the tensions there. The evening is not good for entertaining, so put it off until a better time. Avoid one who likes to argue.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try not to make a mountain out of some molehill, to use the vernacular; think before you speak and avoid trouble. Particular care in driving and other activities saves some possible accident.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you improve your budget, you get rid of that feeling of lack of funds, can have security restored. Get your property in better condition, but stay within your budget. Use much ingenuity in so doing.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have to take better care of your health if you want to get ahead faster, have more goodwill from others. Improve your appearance. Not a good day for the social side of life. Rest tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have many small tasks to handle so get busy early on them in a conscientious and efficient manner. Not a good day for pleasure. Postpone fun until you have more leisure.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try not to tease a good friend, or an unfortunate severance of connection could result. Have a serious, courteous manner. Put effort into gaining your finest aims, and they are yours.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) With fewer outside activities, you can now handle home affairs and improve your appearance, too. Steer clear of a higher-up who is looking for someone on whom to vent ire. It could be you otherwise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have a new friend who needs careful handling if you are to deepen the friendship instead of suddenly breaking it off. You have real tact and can now use it wisely. Get good results with everyone.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) With all that work ahead of you, get at it early and clear it up quickly and efficiently. Don't run off on any tangents. Take better care of your wardrobe and make sure you do not ruin it by careless action.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) This is a good day to have a good talk with an associate and get right results therefrom. Plan how to get agreements worked out more efficiently. A little astuteness can be most wise now.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those inordinately clean young people who has to have order around him or her, but teach early not to insult others by pointing out their lack in such matters, otherwise your offspring can become a recluse and not popular at all. This can be a good chart for a nurse, whether male or female, the teacher, or the secretary, the office worker, etc. Do not force sports on this person early. Care in diet.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP)—There's a great National Geographic special coming up tonight on the CBS Television network. It's called "The Haunted West." A bad title, but it's the only bad part of the show.

It's a brilliantly photographed, well-written, well-edited essay on the old ways of life that endure in remote areas of the modern West. And it does its job with care and respect.

It doesn't dwell on "progress" or the encroachments of the 20th century. It does focus on the independent spirit of the West and shows that it's still there if you know where to look for it.

The look taken on this show covers four basic areas—the life of the cowpoke, the life of a small highway town, the religious life of the Yaqui Indians in Arizona and the lives of miners who work for themselves or large companies or both.

In my opinion, the best segment is the one on the cowboy life, typified by that of Bruce Shepherd—a friendly, chunky man in his late twenties who signs on with the 12-man crew of a large cattle ranch near Paradise Valley in northern Nevada.

The camera is rolling when he's introduced to the boys in the bunkhouse, and they know it. But all they do is slightly exaggerate that fine-honed sense of deadpan humor and newcomer's "welcome" that still characterizes certain areas of the West.

Things move briskly to the process of getting Shepherd a horse, which he has to break himself, and the cattle drive and end-of-the-drive uproar in the small town of McDermitt, Nev.

Then comes the small town rodeo, where he plunks down $75 for the privilege of doing about the same things he's been doing the past four months at wages of $250 a month.

There's an agonizing sequence—run in slow-motion—in which he and a bucking bronc part ways, but not before his foot gets caught in a stirrup and he takes a pounding that puts him in the hospital for a week.

It's a fine study and nicely catches both the misery and humor that make up the life of a cheerful, rugged man whose only concession to modern times is a wrist-watch.

The other segments are almost as good, particularly the one on the lives of "boomers," the tramp miners who still knock about the West trying to eke out livings from one-man mining operations.

"The Haunted West" is a program you should watch. It should prove a rewarding hour both visually and emotionally.

National Health Care Plan Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A cradle-to-grave national health insurance plan, borrowing ideas both from organized labor and the White House, was recommended Wednesday in a privately financed study by business leaders and educators.

The Committee for Economic Development, a nonprofit and non-partisan organization, said its plan would "provide a basic level of medical protection for all Americans at a cost the nation can afford."

A secret government analysis of the plan concludes it "reflects quite closely the administration's bill" in the last Congress, except in its extension of coverage of low-income childless families and single persons.

The CED Research and Policy Committee's 105-page report, "Building a National Health-Care System, proposes a three-part program that its sponsors say would take at least four years to implement.

Employers would be required to provide health insurance for all employees and their families. Medicare would continue to cover the elderly and disabled and the federal government would provide coverage for the poor.

To avoid a heavy burden on small employers, the plan would arrange an insurance pooling mechanism in which large firms would pay part of the costs of providing group coverage in small companies.

Although more than 160 million persons are covered by private insurance, the report said, an estimated 20 to 40 million others lack any health-insurance protection.

"The majority of these are poor and near-poor, nonwhite, unemployed-in-general the disadvantaged," it said. "Millions of employed workers have no coverage. Also, because of shortcomings in many existing plans, millions of other people who are covered have inadequate protection from the financial consequences of ill health."

The committee estimated its plan would cost an additional $5 billion in the first year, with the federal government paying about $4 billion of the net increase and private health insurance premiums accounting for the rest.

Inflation has been to blame for nearly one-half the increase in health expenditures from $12 billion in 1950 to $83 billion in 1972, the report said.

A major problem, it said, is maldistribution of health manpower, facilities and services. For example, six affluent states have twice as many physicians per capita as six low-income states, the report said.

In addition, excessive specialization in medicine sometimes leads to substantial inequities in patients, bills and excessive treatments such as surgery, it added.

The report warned against increasing health insurance benefits before the system is improved and costs better controlled.

"To pour large amounts of money into the present system through the expanded benefits of a national health-insurance plan would undoubtedly create further distortions in demand, pricing, incentives and resource allocation without markedly improving services," it said.

SOS TO HELP — Circleville Service Over Self members discuss plans for the annual Lily Day Saturday for the Easter Seal Campaign. They are, from the left, Marilyn Koch, Carol Kirkwood, Judy Harr and SOS adviser Mrs. Hall.

Circleville, Logan Elm Girls To Sell 'Lilies'

S O S (Service Over Self) members, along with 25 other girls from Circleville and Logan Elm High Schools, will participate in the Easter Seal Society's annual Lily Day sale this Saturday. Pictured from the left are Marilyn Koch, Carol Kirkwood, Judy Harr and Mrs. Hall, S O S adviser.

Members of the Easter Seal Society assisting the girls will be Florene Fausnaugh, Mrs. Clayton Lutz, Ethel Kiger, Ida Warren, and Jo Dille. Once again they will be on the streets of Circleville and Ashville urging the public to be generous so the handicapped in the county may continue to receive the services of the society.

Last year's campaign receipts, 83 per cent of which remain here in Pickaway County, were used to provide campships to a special camp for the handicapped, services and supplies for the Pickaway County Speech and Hearing Center, wheelchairs, walkers, crutches, orthopedic shoes, braces, physical therapy, clinic and transportation fees, medication and support of the Epilepsy Clinic.

Richard E. Plum, Campaign Chairman, stated that coin cards will again be distributed in county schools Friday, April 13. He also noted that contributions may be made to P. O. Box 243 if there are those who have not received Easter Seals in the mail.

Seek Compromise On Wages, Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Facing almost certain defeat in their drive for a tough price-rollback bill, House Democratic leaders huddle today to seek a compromise or a temporary extension of the existing economic-control law.

Tentative agreement was reached Wednesday on a 60-day extension of the president's discretionary control powers which expire April 30.

That agreement was reached after a Banking Committee measure for stiff controls ran into heavy opposition in the House Rules Committee.

The Rules panel hearings were recessed until next week, leaving little time for final congressional action on the bill before the Easter recess starting April 19 and extending to April 30.

A 60-day extension of existing law could be passed by the House without Rules Committee clearance next Monday, but it could not be amended.

The extension was designed to give the Banking Committee time to draft a new bill to soften opposition from farmers, cattlemen and some business groups.

The original bill would roll back prices, interest rates and rents to Jan. 10, 1973, levels. It is opposed by the Nixon administration, which wants the existing law extended.

Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the Banking Committee balked at the proposed 60-day extension, which would be considered under procedure barring amendments.

Noting that his committee had approved the rollback measure by a 21-9 vote, Patman said all House members should be allowed to propose and debate amendments if they want to. Without Rules Committee clearance, he complained, members "will be denied this right."

"Controls are never an easy solution," Patman said, citing rising living costs and "the averages of runaway inflation."

He blamed President Nixon for having "placed the nation in an economic condition where it must make such tough decisions."

Patman said "special conditions should not be allowed to rule congressional decisions. Congress must have the courage to rise above this."

U.S. Presses For Release Of ThaiPOWs

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials are pressing quietly for the release of two Thai prisoners of war whom the North Vietnamese have refused to let go.

The two men, believed to be enlisted members of the Thai army, are the last known POWs of the Indochina war.

One of them, Chai Charn Harnavee, is regarded by former American POWs as a hero and a key communications link in the POW complex known as the Hanoi Hilton.

Officials could report little about the second man, a Thai Army corporal named Napodam Wang Chom, captured in Laos in October 1972.

Pentagon and State Department officials said they don't know why the North Vietnamese still hold the Thais, especially since two others from their country were let go along with nearly 600 Americans and a few other prisoners from Canada and West Germany.

Capt. James A. Mulligan, a Navy flier shot down over North Vietnam in 1966, described Harnavee as "one hell of a fine man."

In a telephone interview Mulligan said he believed Harnavee was a radio operator in the Thai army, a specialty which allowed him to communicate by code through the walls of the Hanoi Hilton. The Hilton, as described by American POWs, is a complex of separate camps in a designated area of Hanoi.

For reasons not clear to Mulligan, Harnavee was in "somewhat of a trustee status." Thus, Harnavee had access to new American POWs as they were brought into the Hanoi complex.

"He was the key man," Mulligan said. "He was the link with the new guys."

Bartunek Eyes Senate

CLEVELAND (AP)—Joseph W. Bartunek, Cleveland State University board of trustees chairman, says he will be a candidate for the U.S. Senate and will resign his chairmanship in order to run.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Daniel Ellsberg, vividly describing his journey to disillusionment in Vietnam, is expected to tell jurors today how he risked his government career to copy the Pentagon papers in hopes of ending the war.

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A surprise snowstorm swept across Ohio early today, dumping as much as three inches across the central part of the state.

The Ohio Highway Patrol reported hazardous driving conditions across much of central Ohio this morning and part of Interstate 75 in the west-central part of the state was closed for a time early in the morning.

A small, but vigorous low pressure area that swept across Indiana Wednesday night and into western Ohio early this morning was responsible for the snow. Snow began falling in extreme western Ohio shortly after midnight, and by 3 a.m. Dayton had an inch on the ground with snow still falling.

Travelers advisories were issued for central Ohio, where the heaviest snow was falling. Light snow was reported in northern counties, while rain fell in the Cincinnati area.

The snow was expected to end in all but the extreme northeastern corner of the state during the afternoon.

A chilly, Canadian high pressure area will move into Ohio tonight and cover the state Friday, bringing clear skies and cold temperatures.

Temperatures hovered near freezing across Ohio this morning, except at Cincinnati where readings in the high 30s were reported.

Lows in the 20s are forecast tonight, and highs in the 40s are forecast for Friday.

Wednesday, Ellsberg portrayed himself as a true believer in the war in Vietnam who became sick when he saw first hand that U.S. policies in Southeast Asia were futile.

Ellsberg and Anthony Russo, both former employees of the Rand Corp., are charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft for admittedly copying the papers, a top secret study of U.S. involvement in Vietnam, a study Ellsberg later leaked to news media.

Ellsberg broke down and sobbed during a recess Wednesday after describing to the jury his experiences during a trip to Vietnam.

"I was asked about some incidents in Vietnam that just brought back some vivid memories. I could see the faces of the Vietnamese I was describing and it was very sad," Ellsberg said later.

On the witness stand, he began to tell how as a government researcher he gained access to the Pentagon papers and took the study to his office in Santa Monica, Calif.

But the bulk of his full day of testimony was an account of his ascent to high posts as a government consultant, his trip to Vietnam and the realization that true facts about the conflict were being hidden from Washington.

"My impression was that official reporting (to Washington) screened

Appeal Court Scheduled

The Fourth District Court of Appeals is to convene here Wednesday to hear testimony on four judgment appeals.

Cases scheduled for hearing are:

State of Ohio vs Clarence "Porky" Sawyer, convicted of rape and assault; State of Ohio vs Perry A. Reeves, convicted of two vehicular homicide charges in municipal court;

State of Ohio vs Ronald Coffman, convicted of drunk driving in municipal court; and State of Ohio vs Stephen R. Jones, convicted of three armed robbery charges and one of auto theft.

The court, comprised of Judge Earl E. Stephenson, Presiding Judge from Portsmouth, Judge Gordon B. Gray of Athens and Judge Homer E. Abele, of McArthur, will review these cases from the lower courts of this county in which the judgment is being appealed.

Fourth District Court of Appeals serves fifteen counties in Southern Ohio including Pickaway County.
